

This is what the world's most-streamed orgasm sounds like

Giving a voice to real pleasure, the world's first orgasm library celebrates its second anniversary.

Two years ago, Spanish company Bijoux Indiscrets, specialising in women and female pleasure, launched the world's first real orgasm library (<https://orgasmoundlibrary.com/>) to show, in an innovative way, that pleasure comes in many shapes and sounds and is both plural and diverse.

After carrying out Spain's first sex study, entitled "Fiction vs Reality in Sex", and discovering that women want a sex life similar to romantic films while men seek out porn-style relations, Elsa Viegas and Marta Aguiar, the brand's founders, set themselves the objectives of breaking down the taboos surrounding sexuality, giving a voice to the true sound of real pleasure and highlighting the importance of self-awareness in sex. To do so, they created the world's first orgasm library, where hundreds of women have helped give a voice to female pleasure by donating a recording of their real orgasm.

According to Bijoux Indiscrets cofounder, Elsa Viegas, "Fiction teaches us one thing, but reality shows us another. Cinema, including pornography, sells us the idea that female pleasure is only obtained through penetration. However, almost 80% of the orgasms donated to our library were reached through external, i.e. clitoral, stimulation. Another discrepancy lies in the fact that, in fiction, women don't usually masturbate and only achieve orgasm with a partner, while over half of the orgasms donated were reached alone. In light of these inconsistencies, it's not surprising that so many women become frustrated when they fail to climax with their partners, or begin to think there's something physically wrong with them – problems that can only be solved with REAL information".

Fast-forward two years and they have successfully gathered over 1,000 real orgasms from 51 different countries. Their message even reached China, Saudi Arabia and Pakistan, countries which despite being known for their repressive culture, have helped give a voice to real pleasure. The orgasms have been played more than 3 million times, above all in Spain and Latin America, and have been shared over 12,000 times on social media.

If we stop to reflect, we realise that the most-searched orgasms always share three common characteristics: they were reached solo, through clitoral stimulation and using sex toys.

Two years later, the brand continues to give a voice to real pleasure. Its orgasm library is still racking up the views, currently boasting over 13 million hits, with real orgasm recordings from women all around the world. You too can give a voice to real pleasure by donating your *100% anonymous* clip or by sharing the project on any social media site. Let's continue the conversation about real pleasure, which is dismantling the influences, taboos and prejudices that surround sexuality. Because, as they say at Bijoux Indiscrets, enjoying your sexuality to the full improves your quality of life.
